Arms Race Desperation

New technologies arrive unexpectedly in the south Pacific frame fishing culture just in time to coincide with an attempted frame revolution and with a deadly twist. An arms race begins to try to stay ahead of expected advances coming from the mainland.

A six year long search comes to an end, with potentially world shattering results. There are groups of industrialists, financiers, and military world shapers that have changed the world. None could hold a candle to Arnott. All combined from world history were pitiful pikers by comparison. None came close to the total changes to civilization that Tom Arnott accidentally caused to happen. Add in the changes that he made happen deliberately. He profited from both. Later he gave away immense fortunes. Just to print the names of his companies and holding arrangements worldwide would fill books, perhaps shelves.

He had walked, no, run away from it all. He had been absent and in hiding for over twenty-five years now. He had been working as a simple mechanic for most of that time.
